

The Earliest
Form of Some of Our Most Successful Inventions

The first electric dynamo, made in 1877 by its inventor, William Siemens of London. It was a machine of two horse-power and generated electricity for two arc lamps. Vander Weyde.

The model of the first typewriter in the form of the modern machine, built by R. T. P. Allen of Kentucky in 1876.

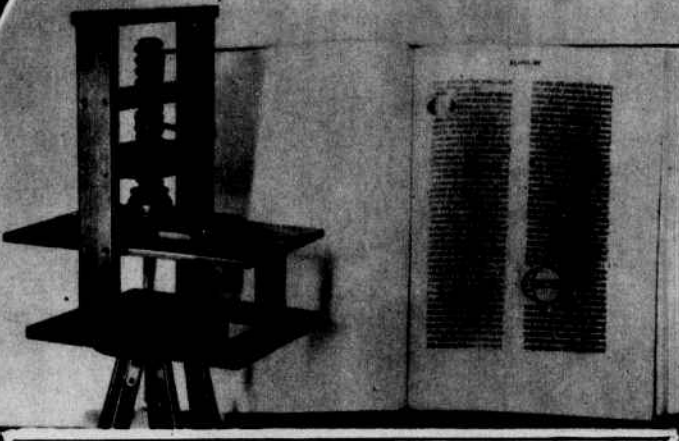

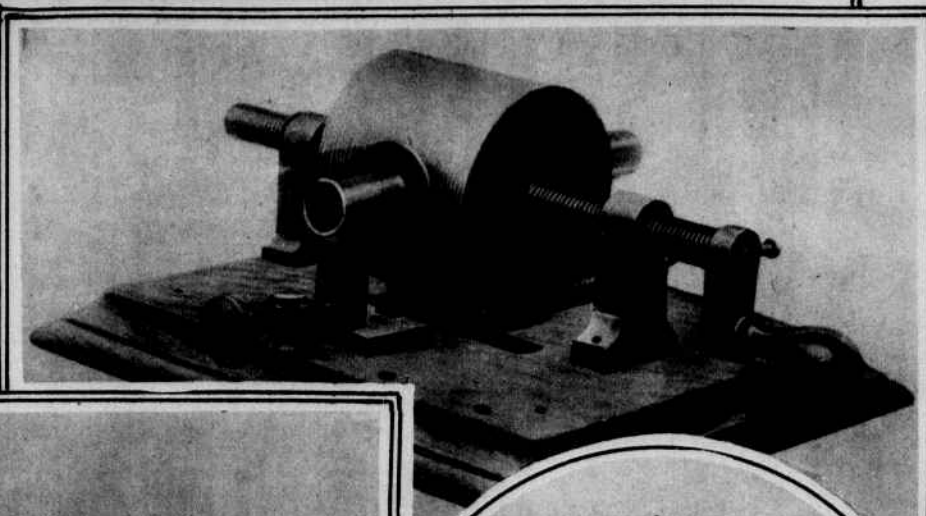

The first electric arc lamp in 1877 was made in the form of the ordinary gas lamp used in the city streets. The mechanism on top of the lamp kept the carbons in position to produce the light.

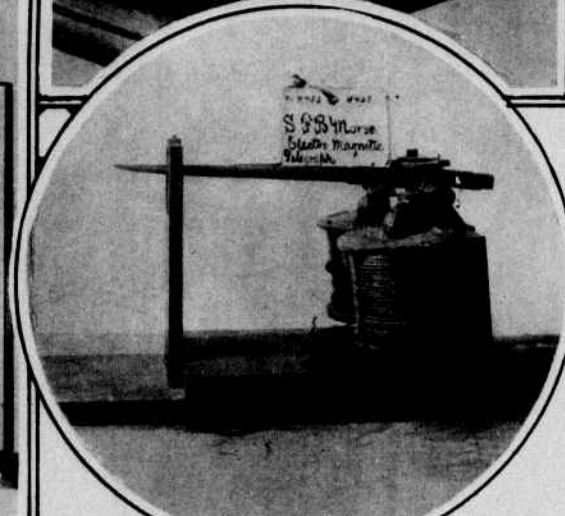

Above—Thomas A. Edison's incandescent lamp and socket, which he used in his home in 1879. The base of the lamp and the socket were made of wood.

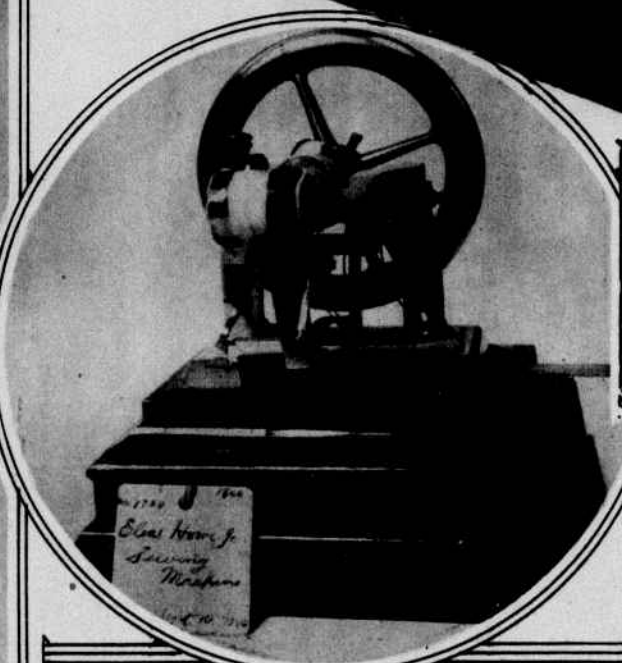

At right—Edison's original model of the phonograph, made in 1877.

The earliest piece of printing in the world—the Gutenberg Bible—photographed alongside the model of the original Gutenberg press in the National Museum at Washington, D. C. The Bible was printed some time between 1450 and 1455 in Mainz, Germany. Harris & Ewing.

The telegraph instrument of Samuel F. B. Morse, on which he obtained a patent in October, 1853.

Above—Elias Howe's original model of the sewing machine, on which he obtained a patent September 10, 1846.

And now—relief from the three-times-a-day ruining of the hands

THREE times every day your hands are in the dish pan.
Don't let dish washing be a hardship to them.
One tablespoonful of Lux—hot water—and your dish pan is full of rich bubbling lather pleasant to the most sensitive skin.
Lux is made to be easy on your hands. It won't hurt them, just as it won't hurt silks or woollens. In these pure flakes there is no ingredient that could possibly redden or roughen the skin.
Try Lux to-day. One package will last for 44 dish washings—more than two weeks. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.

LUX
FOR WASHING DISHES

Just a tablespoon to a pan. A single package does 44 dish-washings—all the dishes for more than two weeks

Lux leaves your glassware sparkling without a trace of soapy film—your silver lustrous, your china spotlessly clean
